

50X1-HUM

S-E-C-R-E-T

A Soviet military headquarters occupies a three-story house (formerly a private residence) on Republica Street in Galati. The entrance is guarded by a sentry armed with a submachine gun with drum magazine.

An unidentified Soviet artillery unit occupies barracks in Galati formerly quartering a Rumanian cavalry regiment. It is equipped with ZIS vehicles and artillery pieces whose barrels are approximately 3 meters long. The weapons are equipped with muzzle brake.

A Soviet infantry unit occupies two single-story buildings on the western edge of Galati in the Tiglina quarter. The unit supplies guards for an ammunition depot near the Siretul River. The depot is surrounded by barbed wire.

There are no Soviet units in Bucharest, however, it is believed that individual Soviet military personnel in mufti are stationed in the city.

It is reported that at the beginning of 1947 Soviet troops were stationed in Sarduc-Mare along the Yugoslav frontier.

It is said that a Soviet antiaircraft unit occupies the barracks formerly housing the Rumanian 19th Artillery Regiment on Cantacuzino Street on the road to Targoviste in Floesti.

A Soviet infantry unit of undetermined strength in Floesti is quartered in a barracks formerly occupied by the 7th Infantry Regiment. The barracks is located on Trezor Street.

A Soviet infantry unit of undetermined strength occupies the barracks formerly containing the 32d Infantry Regiment in Floesti.

A Soviet tank and gun repair shop occupies an installation formerly containing a Rumanian antiaircraft unit on Targoviste Street in Floesti.

Soviet infantry, artillery, and armored units, totaling 6,000-7,000 men, are stationed in an old castle, approximately 1,500 meters east of the bridge which connects old and new Arad, and in an installation approximately 400 meters west of the Arad railroad station. Officers are quartered in private homes. Armament observed included armored vehicles of various types, artillery pieces, and rocket launchers.

An unidentified Soviet unit is quartered in barracks formerly occupied by the Rumanian 32d Infantry Regiment, on the western edge of Floesti on Cantacuzino Street. Sentries at the entrance are armed with drum-magazine submachine guns.

- 2 -

S-E-C-R-E-T

S-E-C-R-E-T

50X1-HUM

[redacted]

Soviet and Rumanian infantry and cavalry totaling approximately 2,000 men are quartered in Targoviste in barracks formerly occupied by a Rumanian cavalry officers' candidate school. The installation is approximately 500 meters from the railroad station.

[redacted]

In mid-March 1951, approximately 30 families evacuated from their homes in Voevodul-Mihai, approximately 2 kilometers northeast of Targoviste. They were moved to Targoviste to make room for a Soviet unit.

[redacted]

A military train carrying Soviet troops and small and medium artillery pieces was seen in the Filaret railroad station.

[redacted]

A military train consisting of 60-70 cars was seen at the east station in Bucharest in November or December 1950. It contained Soviet military personnel, artillery pieces, and tanks. A second such convoy was seen in January or February 1951.

[redacted]

A barracks in Ploesti, formerly a Rumanian military school, on the street formerly known as Printesa Ileana Street, is occupied by a Soviet unit.

A Soviet military vehicle repair shop is located in Krangului Bot, approximately 4-5 kilometers west of Ploesti on the road to Targoviste. The installations consist of a number of buildings surrounded by barbed wire and guarded by Soviet sentries. Soldiers stationed at the shop are quartered in a brick building.

- E N D -

- 3 -

S-E-C-R-E-T